

ARIELA CAGLIO

Bocconi University – SDA Bocconi School of Management

Via Roentgen 1 - 20136 Milan (Italy)

e-mail: ariela.caglio@sdabocconi.it

Ariela Caglio is an Associate Professor of Management Accounting and Performance Measurement at Bocconi University and at SDA Bocconi School of Management. She graduated cum laude at Bocconi University, where she also got a PhD in Business Administration and Management.

Her extensive international experience stems from visiting prestigious Institutions, such as the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE) and the University of Manchester, and from working as an advisor to United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) on sustainability reporting matters.

Her research interests primarily rest in management accounting and control systems in inter-organizational settings, sustainability and Integrated Reporting, compensation design, and the accounting profession. She is particularly fascinated by studying the fashion industry and the football industry. She has published for prestigious academic outlets, such as Accounting, Organizations and Society, European Accounting Review and Management Accounting Research.

Ariela sits in the European Accounting Review editorial board and has been the Editor of the European Accounting Association (EAA) Newsletter from 2015 to 2018. She has also served the Standing Scientific Committee of the European Accounting Association (EAA) from 2012 to 2018 and has been Deputy Chair of the European Accounting Association (EAA) 2018 Congress in Milan.
