

Juan Manuel Garcia Lara is a full professor of accounting (since 2016) at Universidad Carlos III de Madrid, where he is currently the head of the Department of Business Administration. Before joining Carlos III (in 2005), he was an assistant professor at Lancaster University. He obtained his PhD degree from Universidad de Valencia in 2002.

His research interests cover several research streams in financial accounting, including conservatism, earnings management, and the links of financial accounting with corporate governance, the costs of financing and the firm investment policy. He has also an interest in international accounting (comparability of accounting information across countries, EU accounting harmonisation,...).

His research has been published in academic journals such as Journal of Accounting and Economics, Review of Accounting Studies, Journal of Business Finance and Accounting, Abacus, Accounting and Business Research, Journal of Accounting and Public Policy, European Accounting Review, Journal of Law Finance and Accounting, Journal of Banking and Finance or Journal of Corporate Finance.

He is currently a joint editor in chief of Accounting and Business Research, and he also serves in the editorial board of the European Accounting Review and of the Journal of Business Finance & Accounting.