

David Procházka is an Associate Professor of Accounting and Corporate Financial Management at the Prague University of Economics and Business. Since 2014, he is the head of the Department of Financial Accounting and Auditing. He is also the director of the master's and PhD programme in accounting. His teaching activities include introductory, intermediate and advanced courses on IFRS and the relevance of accounting information to capital markets.

David is actively involved in standard setting and regulation at both national and international level. He is a member of the Czech Accounting Board and a member of the EFRAG FR TEG (2020-2026). He also participated in the process of official EU translations of IFRS into Czech language. David has also co-authored several comment letters to the IASB (including one on the behalf of the EAA). He has been a member of the EAA since 2007 and served as the Czech representative on the EAA Board for the period 2017-2023.

In his research, David focuses on IFRS adoption in emerging markets, accounting for the crypto ecosystem and financial reporting of professional sports. He is a co-editor of Prague Economic Papers and a member of the editorial board of Accounting in Europe, among all. Since 2006, David is the chair of the organising committee of the Annual Conference on Finance and Accounting (ACFA).

More information available at: <https://kfua.vse.cz/english/prochazka/>