

● CALL FOR EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST

Assistant Professor of Accounting

Non-Tenure-Track, Postdoctoral Position

The Department of Accounting & Sustainability Reporting at Goethe University Frankfurt invites expressions of interest for a fixed-term postdoctoral position, comparable to a non-tenure-track assistant professorship. It is designed to launch a research career: you'll have most of your time for your own research agenda, support to publish in top journals, and a moderate teaching load.

3 years

initial term, extendable

Research first time for your own agenda

Light teaching

moderate load in English

Flexible start

date to be agreed

Who we are

We are a dynamic and international department. We do empirical and theoretical research on financial reporting, managerial accounting, and sustainability reporting, with a shared interest in corporate transparency, disclosure regulation, and the economic effects of reporting. Our faculty publish in leading accounting and finance journals and are part of the DFG-funded Collaborative Research Center TRR 266 "Accounting for Transparency," one of Europe's largest accounting research networks.

Why Frankfurt

Frankfurt is at the center of European finance and reporting regulation. The European Central Bank, the Deutsche Bundesbank, the ISSB's Frankfurt office, Deutsche Börse, and the SAFE Leibniz Institute are all here — a unique place to study accounting, sustainability disclosure, and regulation up close. Our department runs an active research seminar series, offers a structured PhD program, and collaborates closely with leading institutions in Frankfurt, Germany, Europe, and beyond.

Who we're looking for

- ✓ A PhD in accounting or a related field, completed or close to completion by the start date
- ✓ A strong research agenda and the ambition to publish in leading journals. Any methodological approach is welcome; we're especially interested in work on reporting, disclosure, regulation, or sustainability
- ✓ Enthusiasm for working with colleagues and contributing to the department's research community

EAA TALENT WORKSHOP

Madrid, Nov 6–7, 2026

Apply by

Oct 23, 2026

If you'd like to meet us in Madrid, please send your application package:

CV

Job market paper

Research & teaching statements

Two letters of recommendation

✉ accsus.hiring@econ.uni-frankfurt.de

Letter writers should send recommendation letters under separate cover.

Questions? Prof. Matthias Breuer
m.breuer@econ.uni-frankfurt.de

This is a call for expressions of interest. The formal job posting will follow under Goethe University's standard procedures. Goethe University is committed to equal opportunity and diversity and encourages applications from all qualified candidates.